The “Campus Sexual Assault Victims’ Bill of Rights” requires all colleges and universities (both public and private) who participate in federal student aid programs to afford sexual assault victims certain basic rights. The “Campus Sexual Assault Victims’ Bill of Rights” is part of the campus security federal reporting requirements, known as the Jeanne Clery Act.

Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 is a law that prohibits discrimination based on sex. The law states that “No person in the United States shall, on the basis of sex, be excluded from participation in, be denied benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any education program and activity receiving Federal financial assistance.” (20 U.S.C §1681) Under Title IX, discrimination on the basis of sex can include sexual harassment, sexual assault, or sexual violence, including domestic violence, stalking and dating violence.

Inquiries concerning the application of Title IX may be referred to the College’s Title IX coordinator(s). The Title IX coordinator(s) will take immediate action to provide a prompt and equitable resolution to a complaint and take steps to prevent the recurrence of the discrimination or harassment. Retaliation against individuals reporting sexual harassment and/or sexual violence will not be tolerated and will be addressed through the appropriate college process (Campus Police and Security, Student Code of Conduct or Human Resources).
